Don Eugenio, Lobos, Buenos Aires Special property with an important colonial-style house of 450 m², ideally located for recreation and/or polo, equestrian, or cattle activities, just 10 km from Lobos. Close to La Espadaña Polo Club, Santa María de Lobos, La Araucaria, and all the polo activity in the Lobos area.
110 km from Buenos Aires city.

Surface area: 37 hectares

At the entrance to the property, there is a notable tree-lined path starting with silver poplars and continuing with old elm trees. The park is home to large, leafy, ancient willows, but the standout features are an oak and a linden tree, both over 70 years old, providing a shaded spot for social gatherings very close to the main house.

As for shrubs and herbs, it is a garden with lush and diverse vegetation, offering plenty of fragrance due to the presence of jasmine, which thrives along the arcades of the house.

Surrounding this park is the significant Colonial-style main house of 450 m², with an entrance hall leading to a very spacious living and dining room of 130 m², with a library/TV room/playroom area, a guest toilet, and double circulation that leads to the bedrooms. The main suite has two walk-in closets and two complete bathrooms. There are also three other en-suite bedrooms, all with generous dimensions and full bathrooms. The property also includes a kitchen, office, laundry room, storage/pantry, ironing room, and a service area with a bedroom and bathroom.
